

Dr Fabith Moideen V M is a young, dynamic and highly reputed Emergency Physician from India.

He is presently working as the Chief of Emergency Medicine department at Baby memorial hospital, Calicut, India. Owing to his passion and various contributions for EM, he has been selected as the national course director for National Ultrasound Life support course (NULS) in India. He is also the general secretary for SONOSCHOOL, an international point of care ultrasound courses. He was the state president for Society for Emergency Medicine (SEMI), Kerala chapter, India. (2012-2018)

He is one of the directors of Mcare Apps, that creates various medical apps for safe and better patient care including those for acute stroke and myocardial infarction.

He has a vast clinical experience of over a decade in EM and possesses excellent academic and clinical background. He is also a recipient of various awards nationwide for his academic and extra circular work. He has put tremendous efforts towards creating awareness among public about health related issues at various platforms. He has played a pivotal role in rescuing and treatment flood affected victims during the disaster in Kerala state (August 2018). His leisure activities include wildlife photography, paintings and playing football.